Grounded Visionaries Campaign Committee Co-Chairs John K. F. Irving AB '83, MBA '89 and Philip Harrison AB '86, MArch '93.

Dear Alumni and Friends,

As we reflect on the remarkable third year of the Grounded Visionaries campaign, we are struck by the responsiveness of the School to ensure that the GSD is preeminently relevant and impactful in the world. In addition to its rigorous core design curriculum, the GSD is advancing the way design can address some of the world's biggest challenges, such as social equality, climate change, and transportation. Designers are more necessary today than ever before, and the School needs to continue to respond to the demands that society is placing on them. Through the generous support of our alumni and friends, you are helping the School to harness creativity and shape a more equitable, sustainable, and beautiful world.

With less than one year remaining of the Grounded Visionaries campaign, we strive to exceed our $110 million goal. This past year, we had strong momentum in raising a record amount for student financial aid and fellowships. Over the course of the Campaign, the GSD Fund, which goes directly to current use financial aid, has doubled the funds raised! It remains a high priority to attract the most talented, creative, innovative students. It is our hope that GSD students have an inspired experience at the School; they should have broad institutional support and leave their programs with a deep sense of empowerment to make a positive impact in the world.

At the same time, we also expanded our faculty, with several noteworthy hires in key areas such as urbanism, sustainability, technology, and social equity. In turn, we grew the GSD's research enterprise, with critical initiatives that affect policy and practice in the United States and around the world. These projects span the Future of the American City, a new initiative with targeted projects in four cities; the HouseZero project at the Harvard Center for Green Buildings and Cities; to the School's rigorous global studio agenda.

In the last year as GSD alumni convened to build an engaged community, the discourse of design was advanced, whether at a reception during a professional conference, on campus for their reunion, or through student mentoring sessions with the Alumni Council. On behalf of everyone at the GSD, we thank you for your engagement and your involvement. If you attended a GSD event, joined the Harvard Alumni Database, offered to network with students, or donated to the Grounded Visionaries campaign, your contribution is valued. What we have accomplished together is having a profound impact on our students, faculty, and programs in the greater Harvard community and around the world.

Together, through these multi-faceted efforts, we have dramatically increased the GSD's intellectual footprint on the world stage. Nevertheless, we cannot rely on past successes alone. While a lot has been accomplished, the final year of the Campaign will set the direction and solidify the resources for evolving the GSD in the decades to come. What will remain constant is that the School must continue to recruit the brightest minds to work and study at the GSD, and to provide the kind of financial and institutional support that will enable us to foster a diverse, innovative community, and remain competitive with our peer institutions. In the pages that follow, I hope you relish reading about the highlights from the past year and are inspired to join us to make great strides on the most pressing issues facing the 21st century.

Best wishes,

Philip L. Harrison AB '86, MArch '93

Josep Lluís Sert Council

The Josep Lluís Sert Council is the GSD's annual leadership giving society. This important community of generous alumni and friends make a significant impact on the GSD's students and faculty every year. Through annual contributions of $1,000 or more (and adjusted levels for recent graduates), donors in the Sert Council help provide a more innovative, supportive, and flexible learning and teaching environment.

Sert Council members are invited to a series of exclusive events throughout the year that provide opportunities to tour the latest projects and sites, as well as participate in thought-provoking industry conversation. In 2016–2017, members gathered together for four events, including a tour of the Brigham Building for the Future with members of the project team from NBBJ, a discussion with Marc S. Kushner MArch '04 and John Gidding MArch '03 at Architizer in New York, an exhibition viewing at SFMOMA with Shay Zak MArch '86 and Jennifer Dunlop Fletcher MDes '04, and a survey of the recently completed VIA 57 WEST building designed by Bjarke Ingels Group (BIG).

The GSD and the Sert Council Co-Chairs, Bil Ehrlich BArch '67 and Marc S. Kushner MArch '04, are pleased to acknowledge the following FY '17 Sert Council members:

Rendering of a laboratory space by Manus Leung MArch '17 and Lilian Taylor MArch '17 for the second "Work Environments" studio.

Knoll Empowers GSD Students to Envision the Future of the Workplace

During the 2016–2017 academic year, the Harvard Graduate School of Design concluded a three-part studio series in collaboration with Knoll, Inc., that imagined the future of the "workplace," or the environments in which people and industries conduct work. Supported by the philanthropic initiative of Knoll and its CEO, Andrew Cogan AB '84, each of the three spring-semester studios examined a different type of work environment and speculated on its future. In the inaugural Spring 2015 studio, students and faculty examined two interrelated domains of work—the corporate campus and the industry-wide event (such as conferences, exhibitions, and festivals)—and also considered the evolving landscape of work beyond the traditional office environment. The second studio studied a single company, Corning Incorporated, as a template for the future of laboratory and factory workspaces.

The final studio, held this past spring, investigated the government's work environments, with a particular focus on the needs of NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, California.

Led by the GSD's Florian Idenburg, associate professor in practice of architecture, with aid from teaching associate Duncan Scovil MArch '15, the "Work Environments" studios urged students to produce innovative design solutions to accommodate the large-scale technological, economic, and cultural disruptions that are altering traditional workplace structures. "The Harvard GSD understands the relevance of these shifting dynamics, and the need for its students to develop knowledge around the subject," wrote Idenburg in the 2015 studio report Work Environments, documenting the first of the three studios. "The GSD should be at the forefront of the discussion, as the new work configuration affects people's mental, social, and economic well-being."

A leader in workplace design for over 75 years, Knoll provided both conceptual and financial support for the studio series. Executive Vice President and Design Director Benjamin Pardo worked with Idenburg on the series at various levels, participating in reviews and other events over the past three years.

"The partnership with Knoll was one of the reasons I was interested in participating in the "Work Environments" studios," said Abigail Chang MArch '16, who was a student in the first studio and served as the teaching assistant for the second. "The topics proposed were really large-scale, yet Knoll, as a furniture company, brought the focus to a much smaller, more intimate level. I was curious about how these would come together."

Students tour an abandoned corporate campus in Austin, Texas.

During the semester, each studio traveled to a location in the United States, as well as around the Boston area, for site visits and meetings with experts. After studying the history and environmental context of the workspaces in question, students were asked to present speculative designs of future work domains based on scenarios devised for each course. The resulting projects range from wildly fantastical to utterly dystopian. Student work from the series is represented in three studio reports, the last of which will be published this fall.

“Studios like those supported by Knoll serve as laboratories for developing imaginative, sustainable solutions to real-world challenges,” said GSD Dean Mohsen Mostafavi, Alexander and Victoria Wiley Professor of Design. “We are deeply grateful to Andrew Cogan for his partnership as we strive to create a better, more humane, and more beautiful world.”

Donor Honor Roll

We are delighted to thank and acknowledge the following alumni and friends who generously contributed to the Harvard University Graduate School of Design in Fiscal Year 2017, which is from July 1, 2016 to June 30, 2017.

Christine Carlyle MAUD '91 with Eric Keune, design director at Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, at the Grounded Visionaries Campaign Impact Reception.

Loyalty Giving: A Tradition of Support

In this era of philanthropic mega-donors, the Harvard University Graduate School of Design (GSD) is grounded by the generosity and commitment of some of our most loyal and steadfast supporters. The cohort of alumni who provide unwavering annual support to the GSD Fund for student financial aid is growing, and their total contribution has almost doubled in the last five years. Among these loyal donors are established professionals, as well as recent graduates, who understand the power of design, value a quality design education, and remain committed to the tradition of giving back.

Christine Carlyle MAUD '91, a principal and director of planning for Solomon Cordwell Buenz in Chicago, has donated to the GSD nearly every year for the past 21 years. She has consistently directed her annual giving toward financial aid. Married to a fellow architect, Carlyle describes her annual gifts as modest but acknowledges she is motivated to return the benefit because she was a recipient of financial aid as a student at the GSD. "Unfortunately, the starting salaries of young designers are low for their cost of living, especially in urban areas, and many are saddled with an enormous amount of student debt when they start out. I believe that every little bit counts, so I give what I can." Carlyle's engagement with the GSD goes well beyond her giving. She was involved with the GSD Alumni Council for nearly 10 years and said the experience was "in a word, tremendous. I enjoyed going back to Cambridge, getting updates on the School, talking with students, and participating in project reviews. It was an enriching experience."

Amy Delson AB '67, MArch '72.

Silicon Valley-based Amy Delson AB '67, MArch '72, a principal with Strategic Facilities Planning in Atherton, California, remembers choosing to enroll at the GSD: "Architecture is the synthesis of my interests in art, science, and writing. Being at the GSD was a wonderful experience, challenging me to be the best I could be among a group of classmates and professors who were intent on making the world a better place through design and social engagement."

Although Delson attended both Harvard College and the Graduate School of Design, she acknowledges that her philanthropic support has greater impact at the GSD: "I feel it is important to support the next generation of innovative architects and design leaders; the tools they acquire at the GSD will enable them to influence the course of the global environment." Delson has given to the GSD almost every year for 35 years. With her gift this year, she joins the Josep Lluís Sert Council, a community of annual leadership donors who believe in the transformational power of design and share in an offering of curated design experiences.

Through their dedicated annual giving, supporters of the School like Carlyle and Delson create opportunities for the next generation of design leaders and help to shape design in the 21st century. For the GSD, every gift matters.

My hope for this gift is not only for John Peterson (Loeb Fellowship Curator) to do transformational things, but also to encourage the Loeb Fellows and other GSD alumni to continue to find creative ways to bring significant resources to bear and to make the world a better place.

Forty-four years ago, the GSD took a gamble by admitting me into the Master in Architecture I program and provided financial support to ensure my ability to accept. How do you repay a debt that changed your life? By making sure that others have the same opportunities to fulfill their dreams. I am honored to pay off that debt with interest.

Four Consequential Gifts Empower Students with Financial Support

Four new student fellowships will change the lives of GSD students, thanks to the generosity of donors who share a passion for helping students realize their dream of a design education. Two fellowships were created by GSD alumni—The Phil Freelon Fellowship Fund and the Thomas Payette Financial Aid Fund—and the other two by friends of the GSD—the Robert P. Hubbard AB '51 Fellowship Fund and the Zaha Hadid/Omniyat Fellowship Fund. Together, the impact of these fellowship funds reaches well beyond the School. They help to spread the GSD's renowned pedagogy to a larger audience, promote a robust global discourse on design, and sustain a broader legacy of design leadership.

The Phil Freelon Fellowship Fund, supported by global architecture and design firm Perkins+Will and the Fund's namesake, Phil Freelon LF '90, design director of the firm's North Carolina practice, expands academic opportunities for African American and other underrepresented architecture and design students. Freelon and Grounded Visionaries Campaign Co-Chair Phil Harrison AB '86, MArch '93 announced the Fellowship to the School community in November 2016. "As the design profession continues to attract a more diverse talent base, this gift will provide students of color with financial assistance that could make pursuing an advanced degree at the GSD possible," said Freelon, whose portfolio includes the National Center for Civil and Human Rights in Atlanta, Historic Emancipation Park in Houston, and the recently opened National Museum of African American History and Culture in Washington, DC.

During its second annual fellowship reception in April 2017, the GSD celebrated the power of financial aid and announced the Thomas Payette Financial Aid Fund. The event brought donors together with students who have benefited from their financial aid gifts, along with faculty and staff, to share a deep appreciation for the support of the next generation of leaders. The Fund, which honors the legacy of Payette Associates, Inc. founder Thomas Payette MARCH '60, was established by three GSD alumni at Payette Associates: President and CEO Kevin Sullivan MARCH '94 and two partners, David Feth MARCH '85 and Leon Drachman MAUD '93. Thomas Payette's passion for the GSD moved the trio to start this Fund. According to Sullivan, "The Fund will help assure that many talented students...will have the ability to study at the GSD if they need financial assistance; and hopefully, they will not have to work full time as Tom [Payette] did if they choose to go, or, far worse, decide not to attend."

Robert P. Hubbard COL '51, a long-time resident of Walpole, New Hampshire, nobly dedicated his life to teaching and philanthropy after attending Harvard College. His passion for art, culture, and the environment will live in perpetuity, thanks to his support of design thinking through the creation of the Robert P. Hubbard COL '51 Fellowship to support talented, ambitious students.

In 2016, the global design community mourned the passing of Dame Zaha Hadid (1950–2016), the first female recipient of both the Pritzker Architecture Prize and the RIBA Gold Medal. Her untimely passing saddened friends, clients, and admirers, but her legacy inspired the creation of the Zaha Hadid/Omniyat Fellowship Fund. Mahdi K M J Amjad, a friend of the GSD and the executive chairman and founder of Omniyat, one of the Middle East's leading real estate development firms, established the fund for qualified students who are enrolled in the Master in Architecture program at the GSD and are citizens or residents of the Middle East and North Africa region. The announcement was made following the October 2016 public lecture "Zaha Hadid: A Celebration," which focused on Hadid's extraordinary architectural contributions.

The GSD is thankful for the generosity of these philanthropic alumni and friends in supporting a key priority of the GSD's $110-million-plus Grounded Visionaries campaign. Together, they are helping to spur creativity and increase the diversity of the student body. By empowering the next generation of design leaders, these fellowship funds will allow the GSD to increase its impact around the world and help talented designers reach their potential in shaping the built environment.

I am consistently impressed with the high quality thinking and impressive range of multidisciplinary work that occurs at the GSD. Its students emerge as new thought leaders in the industries that shape our built environment and, as a result, it is a privilege to support the GSD Fund.

Professor Eduard Sekler in 2013 delivering a talk at Gund Hall in honor of the Carpenter Center's 50th anniversary.

The Enduring Legacy of Professor Eduard Sekler

When Eduard Franz Sekler, Harvard University's Osgood Hooker Professor of Visual Art Emeritus and Professor of Architecture Emeritus at the Graduate School of Design, passed away last spring at the age of 96, the GSD community responded with an outpouring of letters in remembrance of the beloved educator, architect, scholar, and friend. "Professor Sekler was my intellectual 'godfather' during the year I spent as a Loeb Fellow," wrote Carter Wiseman LF '85. "A brilliant man, wonderful teacher, an inspiration to me, while being one of the kindest, gentlest souls I ever met," wrote Ames Fender MArch '86.

The many former students and colleagues whose lives and careers Professor Sekler influenced will always remember him as a gifted teacher and dedicated scholar. For those who did not know him personally, the GSD is honored to continue his legacy by welcoming the first Eduard Sekler Fellow to campus this fall through a new financial aid fund established in his name by former students.

The Eduard Sekler Fellowship Fund was started in 2005 with gifts from generous alumni seeking to honor their former teacher. This effort, led by Michael F. "Mick" Doyle MArch '77, who knew Professor Sekler as a student at the GSD and a teaching fellow at the Carpenter Center and worked with him at the Kathmandu Valley Preservation Trust, has since received donations from more than 50 GSD alumni and friends. "The generosity of my fellow alumni is a powerful and moving tribute to Professor Eduard Sekler. I am thrilled that the Sekler Fellowship is now and will always be part of the GSD community, and I encourage alumni to continue to honor Professor Sekler's unique talents with contributions to this financial aid award named in his memory," said Doyle.

A significant contribution from one member of the Harvard community, Dr. Ellen Phoebe "Epi" Wiese PhD '53, PhD '59, ensured that the Eduard Sekler Fellowship Fund reached the level required to begin awarding funds to students and secured the Fellowship in perpetuity. An art history scholar, Dr. Wiese spent many years in Cambridge working as a lecturer in fine arts and maintaining an affiliation with the Carpenter Center for the Visual Arts, where Professor Sekler served as director from 1966 to 1976.

Mohsen Mostafavi.

With Professor Sekler in mind, Dr. Wiese established a planned gift with the Graduate School of Design in 2005. The terms of the trust allowed Dr. Wiese to receive a portion of its value as annual income, with the balance going to support the Eduard Sekler Fellowship Fund upon her passing. She died in 2016.

Dean Mohsen Mostafavi, Alexander and Victoria Wiley Professor of Design, informed Professor Sekler and his wife, Dr. Mary Patricia "Pat" Sekler PhD '73, that the Eduard Sekler Fellowship had become an active financial aid award last spring. The Seklers were pleased to learn that grateful students created the Fellowship in honor of Professor Sekler to aid future designers.

As the Fund endures and the community of Sekler Fellows grows, the Fellowship will be a lasting tribute to Professor Sekler's decades of service and remarkable legacy at the GSD. The School looks forward to honoring him with a memorial lecture during the Fall 2017 Public Lecture Series. Interested alumni may still contribute to the Fund to honor the memory of Professor Sekler and to support future Eduard Sekler Fellows.

This year is the 50th anniversary of my graduation from the GSD. The School has dramatically moved forward since 1967 and is preparing for an even more meaningful future. As Co-Chair of the Sert Council and an active member of the Grounded Visionaries effort, I have intimate knowledge of the School as well as its future plans. I am proud and excited to participate in fulfilling the remarkable initiative of Dean Mostafavi and the GSD faculty. Please join me in support of the GSD. Your participation makes a big difference.

H. Langford Warren Society

The H. Langford Warren Society recognizes all alumni and friends of the GSD who have provided generous future support through life income plans, bequest provisions, or other deferred gift arrangements. The Warren Society is named for H. Langford Warren, an exemplary leader and visionary who founded the School of Architecture at Harvard. He established a model of cross-disciplinary collaboration that is still a hallmark of the GSD, joining the fields of science and fine arts to the study of architecture, and helped develop the nascent field of landscape architecture.

Ambassadors

The GSD has engaged a number of alumni ambassadors who come from an array of fields, ages, and regions comprised of designers, practitioners, planners, developers, academics, legal experts, critics, and thought leaders. They work to further the connection between students, other alumni, and the global GSD community.

Alumni Council

The Alumni Council is the primary representative body of Graduate School of Design alumni, with the fundamental goal to promote the engagement of the alumni community and the advancement of the GSD in the world.

An Eventful 2016–2017: Highlights from GSD Alumni Gatherings

Over the past year, the GSD convened over 1,000 alumni and friends at nearly 30 events spanning 14 cities and 5 countries. This groundswell of engagement and activity centered on building intellectual and social connections. Alumni Council members continued to engage fellow alumni with a variety of events designed to build community through collaborations with the larger Harvard community, including with the Harvard Alumni Association (HAA), the Harvard Alumni Architectural and Urban Society (HAAUS), and Harvard Clubs and SIGs throughout the country. Additionally, the GSD continued its representation at leading industry events by hosting alumni receptions at conferences of the American Institute of Architects (AIA), the American Planning Association (APA), the American Society of Landscape Architects (ASLA), and the Urban Land Institute (ULI). Take a look back at a few of the highlights that marked the past year for our remarkable alumni community.

MDE External Advisory Board

The Harvard University Graduate School of Design (GSD) and John A. Paulson School of Engineering and Applied Sciences (SEAS) have launched the collaborative Master in Design Engineering (MDE) degree program, which began in Fall 2016. The MDE External Advisory Board is a group of experts who work at the forefront of this fast-growing field or are deeply engaged in using and promoting its tools in various path-breaking applications. Their counsel is critical to ensuring that the MDE program stays in step with workforce needs and changing directions in the emerging field of design engineering.

Campaign Committee

The Campaign Committee is comprised of alumni, friends, faculty, and administrators who are dedicated to the future of the GSD and take ownership in the success of the Grounded Visionaries campaign. The Committee has been tasked with goal setting and strategic planning and will work to further engage a network of active, committed, and involved alumni, friends, and industry partners. The Committee strives to build a culture of philanthropy at the GSD that will result in support for the Campaign and beyond.
