YEN TING CHO Studio Wins Gold IDA Design Award for Fashion Design
Technology, art, design and fashion combine to produce award-winning signature patterns inspired by New York City

3 February 2021 – London

Design Studio YEN TING CHO has won Gold at the International Design Awards (IDA) for its 2021 New York City scarf collection.

YEN TING CHO uses its own digital technology that responds to body movement to manipulate images and create unique patterns. Full of colour and movement, YEN TING CHO patterns are digitally-printed onto the finest materials for fashion accessories and interior design products.

With submissions from over 80 countries, the 14th annual IDA awards recognise, celebrate and promote exceptional design visionaries worldwide. Awarding YEN TING CHO Studio a Gold award in the Professional Fashion Design category, the jury recognised its highly innovative and experimental creative processes; YEN TING CHO dares to combine digital technology and art to explore complex pattern and colour combinations, leading to the creation of unique and beautiful designs.

2021 New York City Collection:
YEN TING CHO’s latest wool scarf collection brings a splash of colour and unashamedly bold design to the Spring/Summer and Autumn/Winter 2021 seasons. This year’s patterns are inspired by the colours and energy of New York City, a regular haunt for the YEN TING CHO Studio team and crucial marketplace for its products. Bright and compelling signature patterns reflect the exceptional culture and spirit of Manhattan street culture, architecture and landscape. YEN TING CHO’s contemporary pattern designs are always unique, unexpected and dynamic.
About YEN TING CHO Studio
